Dreams That Came to Pass.

Little incidents That May Puzzle the Students of Great Problems.

[From the Jackson Patriot.]

Not long ago, Thomas I. Daniels, the stenographer in this circuit, had a dream, in which the practical events of everyday life were portrayed with vividness and afterwards came to pass. In his dream, he was about to go to Ann Arbor, and looking at the clock, he saw it marking nine, and as he had about one hour to spare, he sat down to some work. In a short time he looked up again, and saw the hands in the same position as when he looked before, the clock having stopped. His watch indicated that it was but ten minutes before train time, and it was only by running that he succeeded in reaching the train. He awoke, went to sleep again, and again his brain began to lift the veil from the future. Last spring he lost an overcoat, and in this second dream Sheriff Webster told him that the coat was at the jail, and that Deputy Smith was connected with its loss. When he awoke the next morning, he said to himself it was only a dream and dismissed the subject from his mind. The dreams were recalled suddenly a day or to since by his clock stopping and his nearly missing the train. All the accidents were exactly as portrayed in his dreams and of this coincidence he spoke to Sheriff, Webster, and also related his other dream. Sheriff Webster told him that Deputy Smith had a coat at the jail which he found in the Court-room last Spring, and subsequent investigation showed it to be Daniel's coat. The dream in regard to the train calls to mind an incident which happened about three years ago to one of the editors of the Lansing Republican. He was visiting friends at Pottsville, where he remained over night. He was exceedingly anxious to reach Lansing by the morning train, which passed at an early hour. His friends told him they would call him in time, and so he rested contented. In the latter part of the night he dreamed he was seated at the breakfast table, and when the meal was partly finished the train whistled on its approach to the station. He seized his overcoat not even taking time to put it on, and ran with all speed for the depot, but when within ten feet of the building the train pulled out, and he was left. When he greeted his friends in the morning he related his dream and when they sat down to breakfast, he was assured that it was fully three-quarters of an hour before the train would be along. The meal was partly over when "toot" went the whistle of the engine, and some very good time was made on the road to the depot, but it was not fast enough to catch the train. The dream came to pass in every particular, much to the disgust of the dreamer.

A lady who resides on Townsend street, in this city, firmly believes that dreams do come to pass. A few weeks ago she had a different idea. She is one of those methodical housekeepers who has a place for everything and everything in its place. It may be well to remark that there are no small children in the family. This lady keeps a molasses jug, and that jug has always been in its proper place, with the exception of now and then a trip to the grocery for a new supply of sweetness. Several days ago the molasses jug came up missing, and if ever there was a sorrowful face on a woman it belonged to that lady. The value of the molasses jug was nothing; but to lose it in her own house, where she could go in the dark and find anything she wanted! For nearly two weeks her waking hours were troubled in meditating on that jug, and finally she dreamed of it. She thought she went down to the cellar and removed a large tin can which for some time had stood bottom side up on a shelf, and under it she found her molasses jug. She arose in the morning, recollected her dream, went down cellar, raised the tin can, and there found the lost molasses jug! She is still puzzled to know how it came there, as she had no recollection of removing it from its usual place, and her husband and grown-up son deny any agency in the mysterious transfer.

For Women.

Eve inaugurated the Fall fashions. Pearl buttons an inch in diameter are worn on black dresses.

Bunches of autumn leaves are a novelty for hat ornamentation.

Dresses made of two or three materials combined are now worn.

Feminine toilets will be decidedly masculine in many details this Winter.

Round lace collars, with a bit of ribbon at the throat are neat and pretty.

Young ladies frequently wear the cravat bow slightly toward the left shoulder.

An English woman, when handed a religious tract, said: "Thank you, I am already saved."

Lady Strongford, of England, is earning for herself the title for the "Florence Nightingale", in the eastern war.

Peluche grenadine is a handsome material for evening wear, and shows intermixtures of plush on semi-transparent surface.

The quaint and grotesque prevails in jewelry. Pins representing ladders, slippers, bootjacks, whips, tongs, guitars, etc., are worn.

Wyoming women must tell their age before they can vote. Some of the unmarried ones will be backward about going to the polls.

Elizabeth Cady Stanton says: "On her own hearthstone woman is fortified where she may make herself bread." Alas, she often does!

Unless the skirt is very short it has to be held up in walking just as much as a demitrait, and as the latter is more graceful for the house it is still worn.

Florence Nightingale sent a letter to the Geneva Congress, urging upon women the duty of taking an active part in the elevation of public morality.

TO THE RANCHER.—The Banner Mill Company, of Boca, Cal., have determined to make a specialty of fencing, and with that view offer to the ranchers of Washoe county a superior article of Red Fir, acknowledged to be the best lumber in any market for the purpose named. The price will be found another inducement in comparison with other varieties. Address, Banner Mill Co., or R. F. M. Greeley, Boca, Cal. No other mill company this side of the mountains has this variety of lumber for sale.

WINTERMANTEL'S.—The attention of the reader is called to the comfortable hotel and restaurant of Louis Wintermantel, on Center Street, near the Depot. The best of accommodations are offered to travellers. Also the El Dorado Saloon, opposite the hotel, where the pleasure seeker will find shooting galleries, ten pin alleys, billiard table and bagatelle. The El Dorado has been arranged for the comfort of guests, and the best of wines, liquors and cigars are kept constantly on hand. If you are looking for a quiet and comfortable place in which to pass an hour, go to the El Dorado, and good attention is guaranteed.

FRIDAY.....DECEMBER 7, 1877.

That Clique.

In the Enterprise article of yesterday concerning General Clarke's speech many unjust assertions were made, and the discourse was evidently thrown together, merely to excuse the Enterprise's course on the Bullion Tax Question. We do not consider it our duty to defend any clique, be they reformers or thieves, but a regard for the essence of all fair discussion makes some corrections necessary.

The Enterprise has no right to presume that General Clarke wants office, nor that any expression of opinion upon a living issue appeals to "men's grosser passions." He has no right to award to himself the honesty and ability which can decide upon this question and deny it to all other men. There is neither reason nor policy in insinuating that pay controlled "The Clique," when it is known that every active worker for the modification of the tax was a sort of Contract and Finance company within himself. There is no element of fact in asserting that because but few men oppose that measure; they were demagogues, nor is it true that General Clarke has lead or ever sought to lead these "demagogues." The course of the Enterprise upon the question has been infamous in the last degree. It asserted its belief that the question would not trouble the legislature, when its editor knew the contrary. It has maintained a course which causes disgust among its readers and has convinced nobody. It blackguarded and maligned every man who dared to be honest and outspoken. And now having been defeated completely, it assumes the right to say who are demagogues, and who lack intelligence.

If anything can exceed the popular disgust for the Enterprise's course, it will be found in the indignation which will attend its repetition. The "hounds" spoken of by the intelligent compromiser are honest in pursuit of such a glaring trail as that made last year, and we are inclined to believe the "opening bay" entirely appropriate. Any "honest hound" need travel only a short way nowadays before crossing a scent which will lead him to the sessions of '79. If it shall become necessary to follow that trail the hounds will be there, and the Enterprise editor with a red flag labeled "Republican party" will hardly divert their attention.

The simile of the Enterprise is unfortunate in another respect, since "baying hounds" are generally used for the pursuit of criminals.

E. J. Parkinson of the Tribune is ill and while we are sorry to learn the fact, we are compelled to enquire into the following.

The proprietor of the Nevada Tribune is no exception to the ordinary man in this regard, and has succumbed to a physical indisposition visited upon him by a superior power.

Now what was this superior power; an excess of mutton chop, or an anti-Christmas mince pie, which coming like a severe frost has nipped this frail blossom and cast it ruthlessly by upon a bed of thorns? Prithee which.

Dr. Dio Lewis has told the people of Oakland how to improve their eyes and ears. His efforts are in the wrong direction, since it is admitted that most people see and hear too much. A society for the propagation of blindness would give us all better neighbors.

The S. F. Post says "Extraordinary Natural Curiosity" and then goes on to produce its snake story for '78. The most wonderful curiosity is that which induces people to read Post editorials.

They are now squabbling over the Huron disaster. The Argonaut having been forced to admit the Huron seaworthy, says that the sea must have been unshipworthy. Correct.

The people of Tuscarora, it seems, are never completely happy. Mike McGowan and Mollie Forsay have both visited them, and they have requested the latter to leave. She says she won't.

The Elko Independent records an exciting race between a freight train and a herd of deer.

Why Flood & O'Brien Have Captured the Comstock.

[Evening Post.]

Although a vaulting ambition to build up a huge monopoly that will control the silver market of the world is thought by "the street" to have prompted Flood & O'Brien to secure fresh jewels for their diadems of Kings of the Comstock, there is another object which has probably more to do with their operation than anything else. We allude to the matter of making satisfactory terms with the Sutro Tunnel Company. This subject has been agitated for several months, but conflicting interests have prevented the mine managers and those who control the great edit from making a compromise. Next year it will be the most important issue for those who are shareholders in the Comstock, because the tunnel will be in a condition to perform its prescribed part in developing the lode. Then, if the matter is not settled, there will be litigation, trouble and expense for all concerned. The terms of a compromise which Mr. Sutro submitted to the mine managers some time ago were that the royalty rate should be done away with, and that the mines should pay to the tunnel company a monthly sum proportioned to the number of feet of ground, at the approximated rate of $3 per foot. The tunnel only being needed by the mines for drainage purposes, those terms were considered exorbitant and unjust. For instance, Sierra Nevada, with 3,900 feet, which is not troubled with water, would have to pay $10,000 per month, while Savage, with 771 feet would only be charged $2,313. It was thought by mining superintendents that the fairer proposition would be to tax at reasonable rates only such mines as were benefited by use of the tunnel. This was a plain business proposition, and a committee was appointed to ascertain the actual cost of pumping. The committee recently completed its labors; but since then very little has been said about the matter, and from the fact that Savage and Hale and Norcross pumps have control over the water is believed that the mine managers have.

THE TUNNEL COMPANY IN A "CORNER." We now find that most of the large mines on the Comstock which would have intercourse with the tunnel are being transferred into the hands of Flood & O'Brien without even a contest for possession. It therefore looks as if an arrangement had been made with other magnates whereby the bonanza firm would manage the whole business, and make terms with Adolph Sutro and his associates. With the mines under several managements there would be many delays and hitches before arriving at a conclusion, and in the event of litigation, there would be general trouble, unnecessary expense and conflict of opinion. In other words, "too many cooks would spoil the broth." As affairs now promise to be, Mr. Sutro will treat only with one firm. They will conduct matters for the Comstock as a whole, and have unbounded resources for gaining the main point at issue. As before stated, the tunnel will be completed next year, and it is important that the questions whether it is to be utilized or not, and what the terms of a compromise shall be, should be settled at once. The influence which the bonanza firm now have at their disposal is thought to be sufficient to make the tunnel company accept their terms. It is now reported that Flood & O'Brien have obtained control of the Chollar mine, and consequently the great combination shaft being sunk by the Chollar, Hale & Norcross and Savage companies. This makes them masters of the field, although it is probable that other mines on the south will also be transferred to them. In connection with the report about the Chollar come other rumors that its shares are to be increased and that 200 feet of its ground is to be sold to the Hale & Norcross Company. This may explain why Hale & Norcross, which contains less feet than the Savage, is selling for almost an equal figure at the boards.

Frozen to Death.

Bad Whisky and Exposure End the Career of a Teamster.

The Tuscarora Review has been informed by persons from Cornucopia that J. S. Carmony, a teamster, was found dead in Bull Run Basin on Saturday last. He had been employed at the Blue Jacket, and when operations had been suspended for the winter, had been discharged. On Thanksgiving day had been enjoying himself with a number of friends, and had been drinking quite freely. Friday morning he started to go down the Basin to the Infidel mine, a distance of four or five miles, accompanied by another party, but they failed to reach the mine, and on Saturday morning his dead body was found by a man passing by, and it is supposed that he died from the effects of the excessively cold night of Friday. Our informant did not know how the two men became separated, but says the other man reached shelter in safety.

Carmony was well known in this section by the name of "Doc," and was a native of the State of Pennsylvania. He had been on this coast upward of twenty years, and had hosts of friends. Parties went out from Cornucopia on Sunday for the purpose of bringing in the body and burying it there.—Silver State.

Beetles, bugs, lizards and serpents are now favorite designs in ladies' jewelry.

A Pretty Pet.

A remarkable story of "snake-charming" has been brought to light at Annapolis. Mr. Luke Brewer lives near the dock in that city, and is the father of a little girl and boy aged respectively nine and six years. He discovered on Saturday last that his children had been in the habit of playing with a water-snake three and a half feet in length. It appears that the reptile had made its land home underneath the kitchen flooring of Mr. Brewer's dwelling, and came thence through an orifice in the ground just outside the house. The little girl on the day mentioned informed her father that they had a pretty pet just like an eel that came out of a hole in the ground and played with them and the kittens. He asked the little child to show him where it was, but was told that it would not come out when he was there. He left for a few minutes, and while returning was met by his daughter, who said she had called her pet, and it was now playing with her brother. The frightened father hastened to the yard and was almost paralyzed with fear on discovering his little boy caressing the snake's head. He ordered the little fellow away. The child reluctantly complied by stepping back, whereupon the father seized a club, when the reptile commenced to make for his den. The boy then moved toward it, calling it endearing names, and was about to pick it up when Mr. Brewer dispatched it, against the earnest and fearful entreaties of the infatuated children. The boy, a robust, hearty little fellow, refused to be comforted, abstaining from food the rest of the day, and begging to be allowed to bring the dead serpent into the house. Mr. Brewer thinks that the children had been amusing themselves all the Summer with their strange pet. The tail of the snake for a distance of three inches from the end bore evidence that two kittens, which were in the house, had also been participants in the sport.—Baltimore Gazette.

The Battle Mountain Messenger says there is no longer any doubt about the great extent and richness of the Lewis mines. It is thought by good judges that there is one million dollars in sight in the Starr and Grover mine. An immense vein of ore in the bottom of the incline, cut by the tunnel of high grade ore. The same vein is struck by the tunnel of Defence No. 2, 400 feet north of the Starr and Grover works, and the lucky owners are offered $50,000, and it is refused. The Eagle company is taking out rich ore constantly, and Lewis is on the eve of reaching a status equal to any we believe in eastern Nevada, and perhaps in the Silver State. Two town plats are made, one at the Eagle company's mill, and the other at their mine two or three miles above; and there is quite a strife over choice lots. Prospecting is being extended and other rich mines are being discovered in the district, and we predict a prosperous future for Lewis.

THE PALISADE COAL MINES.—The owners of the palisade coal mines have started a tunnel to cut the vein at a considerable depth. The vein is large on the surface and the matter which it contains burns freely and makes an intense heat, but its bulk is not materially reduced by combustion. Experts predict that a good article of coal will be found when depth is attained. Governor Bradley, J. S. Mayhugh and M. P. Freeman, of Elko, have located an extension of the vein and are going to work to develop it.—Independent.

H. B. Loomis is producing a favorable change in the original matter of the Eureka Republican. Loomis is a perfect gentleman, and a newspaper man of excellent attainments. We join heartily with those who wish him success in his change of base. Loomis on general principles, is a man that suits us. He is honest, capable, and is a man that wears. The meatiness of true manhood is in him.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

A Scene in the Justice Court.

We have often stepped into a Justice Court and heard the shambling statements of petty criminals, but this morning we saw and heard what shocks one's better nature. Two young boys named Murphy and Edmonds were arraigned before Justice Richardson for larceny. The circumstances of the case are as follows: Last Friday night Messrs. Hymers, Norton and A. M. Lamb each had a buggy robe stolen from his wagon. The two boys left for Wadsworth with the above property in their possession. Monday morning the robes were recovered and Constable Barlow returned the same evening with the stolen articles and the youthful culprits. This morning, as we have stated, they were inducted into the presence of the town Justice. Although not over 15 year of age they seemed quite indifferent in the matter, in fact rather enjoyed their arrest and trial. When questioned as to how they fancied being in jail, one said: "O, we are not troubled about that; we have pie for dinner and a much squarer meal than we get on the outside. No two bit meal will get away with what we have at the jail. We always manage to have a warm place when free but the beds in Lamb's hotel are comfortable. We won't go back on the jug". They were quick to answer all questions and resorted to every dodge to escape conviction. But the reckless enjoyment they took under the circumstances gave one the impression of hardened criminals, embracing vice, and carelessly playing on the very brink of moral turpitude. One came from Cleveland Ohio, the other from San Francisco. Far from home welcomed by vice, unrestrained by moral influences and sauntering along the ragged yet inviting highway of crime. Thus they enter life, but what of the end? Murphy was sentenced to 35 days and Edmonds to 35 in the county jail.

CONFIDENCE MAN.—A few days ago one George Allen, who for several months was a resident of the burg and occasionally in the employ of Mr. H. Ward, practiced upon two or three of our citizens the game of the confidence man. He borrowed from Mr. Brooks the deed to a house and lot for the ostensible purpose of examining it with a view to the purchase of the property. Allen showed the deed to Mr. A. Jose, and informed that gentleman that he (Allen) owned the property and wanted to borrow $50 for immediate use; that he had money in the Reno Savings Bank, and would give him an order on the bank for that amount. Mr. Jose loaned him the money and took an order on the above Allen strolled off Virginia street and stepped into one or two stores, purchased articles on the strength of the deed, to the amount of $20. The westbound overland came along and he boarded the train for California. Mr. Ward presumed that he went to Austin where he had a sick uncle. Whether Allen has a sick relative or not Jose and others have yet to hear from him. Jose of course found that Allen had no money in the saving bank or elsewhere.

CAPTAIN JACK.—On Wednesday evening next Smith's Academy of Music will witness some very stirring proceedings. Captain Jack, who, like "Mr. Wegg," occasionally "drops into poetry" will then and there slaughter and hang up enough red men to last us all Winter. Captain Jack has had considerable experience in expediting the departure of the Indian to the happy hunting ground, and it is affirmed that there are numberless dime novels portrayed during one night of Captain Jack on the stage. The play for next Wednesday evening is founded upon Captain Crawford's life, and we may expect to witness a very serious and exciting display. Miss Rena will assist at the obsequies. Reserved seats at the Postoffice.

MASONIC OFFICERS.—The following gentlemen were elected last evening by the Royal Arch Masons as officers for the ensuing term: Frank Bell, High Priest; Charles Knust, King; R. H. Kinney, Scribe; Orvis Ring, Secretary, and A. H. Manning, Treasurer. The remaining officers are to be appointed two weeks hence.

COMING.—We hear of an approaching marriage in high life, and unless assured of the printer's portion we shall not be happy.

Jottings.

The Episcopal social this evening promises to be very enjoyable.

Verdi is shipping large quantities of wood to Reno and the east.

The emigrant still arrives, applies for a banking situation, and departs.

Wm. Stopher's house on Sierra Street, now nearly completed is quite an addition to that quarter.

A refrigerator car has arrived in town but has not been put in order for the shipments of fresh meats.

J. P. Grey is putting bay windows and other improvements about his residence on Fourth street.

Mr. J. Lipson has just opened a glove manufactory on Virginia street next door to Simmon's.

About the 15th instant Misses Harney & Brown will move into their new store next door to Grey & Isaacs.

W. S. Bailey of Virginia City is in town to-day. He is Vice-President of the C. & N. M. S. Association.

The regular monthly social of the Congregational church will be held this evening at the residence of Mrs. McGee.

The default in the case of Washoe county vs. Humboldt county, was yesterday set aside by Judge Rising. Washoe of course will win.

The Episcopal social to-night will be a success. Varney furnishes sweet sounds, so you had better take along your light fantastic.

H. P. Metcalf, correspondent of the Spirit of the Times was in town last evening. This morning he left for San Francisco.

The delinquent sale of the Buckeye Gold and Silver Mining Company has been postponed until Tuesday, Jan. 8th, 1878.

Ilma di Murska, the Hungarian nightingale, will give two grand concerts in Virginia on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings next.

Juddles (reading San Francisco paper) — "Democratic Movements." "The Senatorial fight in statu quo." "Humph! thought it was in Sacramento."

Prescott ever up with the times and appreciating the wants of the ladies and gentlemen of this county has purchased a large and well assorted stock of goods, which he is now unpacking.

Mr. Carriker informs us that the residents at Mills' Station have organized a Lyceum at the Mills school house. Debates, essays, readings, etc., constitute the weekly exercises.

In the weekly list of U. S. Patents issued to Pacific Coast inventors, we find that Wm. P. Barclay of Virginia City has received a patent on a hydraulic and wire-rope pumping system.

John Cashin of Nevada City was in town yesterday. He came to make further arrangements in reference to the shipments of meats from this branch of the C. & N. M. S. Association.

A telegram says that a movement is on foot to induce the Government to purchase the Palace Hotel for a government building. Dean says that he will part with the Glendale property if the Palace is not large enough.

M. Nathan, has returned from San Francisco, with a large stock of gents, furnishing goods and heavy under clothing for men and boys. Drop in and see Nathan and examine his large and select stock.

Grey & Isaacs have more fancy neck-ties for ladies than is often found in a dry goods store, even in San Francisco. They also have furs, cloaks, dress patterns, etc., too innumerable to mention, and all these articles are just what the ladies want.

Miss Keeles is the new matron of the Episcopal Seminary, Mrs. Miller having resigned in order to attend to accumulated business of her own. The commencement exercises of the present term will be held on the 19th instant. Easter term will open Jan. 10th 1878.

Geo. Becker stole into our sanctum to-day and proposed to flood us with Boca and Annheuser beer. We are poor judges of ardent spirits, but still we labor under the impression that such "truck" as he threw in sight will do for any white man to wet his throat with. Of course the little granite saloon adjoining Hagerman's store has more of the same article.

FRANK'S CHOP HOUSE.—Mr. Frank Rhoads, one of the best cooks on the coast, keeps a first class chop house on the east side of Virginia street. Frank cannot be excelled in getting up ordered meals. Heas kept open night and day. East side of Virginia street, Reno. 12-21f Sad.—James Sutcliffe of Sheep Head visited us this morning and wanted a Carson paper. He then went into our private room and with fear and trembling, began to read. We noticed a "sheepish" look about the man as he came in, and his mysterious movements excited our curiosity. We waited a considerable time and fearing, for Sutcliffe's safety broke open the door. There was a glare in his eye as we entered, and starting to his feet he exclaimed "there, there," placing his finger upon the chapter of accidents and then we knew that James Sutcliffe and Miss Maggie Laird were married in Carson yesterday.

Several hundred pounds of quicksilver have been obtained at the Nevada quicksilver mines. The Osburn and Knox furnace proves a success, and the mines of Messrs. H. A. P. Humboldt & Co. prove that they will pay. We hope to chronicle the continued success of this enterprise.

FINE RESIDENCE.—Mr. Kennedy has about completed the frame work of a handsome residence on Second street. Two stories, Mansard roof, &c.

The Creal furnace will be completed within a few days. The company are awaiting the arrival of some castings, etc., else the furnace would have been fired up ere this.

Delinquents on the last assessment of the Jones & Kinhead mine will find their names in another column.

IN A DEAL.
In a deal a smaller margin graces every broker's book;
In a deal the wild outsider rakes in stock by hook or crook;
In a deal a livelier business circles round adjacent bars;
In a deal the spruce young broker rides in hacks instead of cars.
Then the bears are pale and thinner than the crowd they mix among,
And their cocktails, rarely taken, are invariably up hung;
And they baton-hole each straggler "Stop, I'll speak the truth to thee;
Trust me, friend, in one short fortnight Ophir will be down to three."
Then the straggler turns, all shaken, from the strongly rumored rise,
All his Ophir goes to market, all his Belcher, his Grand Prize;
Saying "I have kept my Ophir, thinking that the price was strong,
Saying "Must I sell my Ophir?" weeping, "Did I wait too long!"
So the broker takes the stock and turns it in his glowing hand,
And the straggler, lightly shaken, wends once more to the level sand;
Often thinking in the stillness of the middle of the night
How he watched his shrinking values pass in music out of sight.
Oh my Ophir, oh my Belcher, oh my Grand Prize, mine no more;
Oh the vanished vanished margins, oh the watch and chain I wore,
Faler than a mine inspector, or the tunes by church choir sung,
Puppet to a false report, and gammoned by a bear's smooth tongue.

A Night Voyage on the Suez Canal.

We boarded a steam launch by no means large enough to accommodate us, and then, packed in a close, stuffy cabin or sitting together on the windy deck, we rushed through the canal at a headlong pace from sunset till one o'clock in the morning, the most miserable community imaginable. The lake, through which we entered the canal, was soon crossed, and we found ourselves skimming over the deep blue waters, with high sand banks on each side of us, we all looked about us with intense curiosity, for it was our first sight of one of the wonders of the modern world. As far as we could see the canal was as straight as an arrow. The high banks, sloping to the water, along the edge of which grew a few hardy shrubs, seemed to draw together at the farther end. The width of the water line in the deep cuts is 180 feet, the depth 26 feet; the total length, 100 miles. It grew monotonous in the course of half an hour—the intermediate banks like gray walls away above our heads.
The moon rose over the top of the embankment and amused us for a little time with a new effect. But the canal is horribly gloomy at night. It was like sailing through a gap between two hemispheres. By and by we raised a ship, a monster, that towered above our tow steamer and seemed to touch the stars with its tapering masts. That ship appeared to fill the canal, for the long high banks closed in behind her. We saw the black hull and the gleaming lights; we heard the blustering orders that were howled out on board, resounding above the roar of the wind in the rigging. I wondered how we were to pass her, and why she did not caution us to keep out of the way. We did slacken our pace somewhat, and then stole under her huge shadow unnoticed. She was very busy trying to keep herself in the middle of the stream as she slowly drifted towards Suez.
Seven ships lay in our track that night—one of them a ship of the line—and all seven of them utterly ignored us, though we were the regular express boat from Ismailia to Port Said. We came to a long, low, wooden house, painted white, and not half way up the bank. There were vines creeping over the roof, and flowers growing in the garden and perfuming the night; but beyond it and above it rose the everlasting bank, and we could see nothing to the right or the left but the dark, narrow, straight gap, with its deep waters ebbing noiselessly from the sea. At midnight we entered the harbor of Port Said. The moon was brilliant, and the white sandy streets of the little city looked as if they were covered with a light fall of snow. Port Said lies above high tide, and is as handsome as a dockyard. It blisters in the sun and withers in the sea winds, and all its drinking water is pumped over from Ismailia, fifty miles away; yet it is a healthy place and a capital resort for sportsmen, who find pelicans, flamingoes, herons, and all kinds of wild fowls, in the neighboring lake.

Nevada is making considerable fuss about her exhibit at the Paris Exhibition, and the press of that State is evidently of the opinion that there will be sagebrush enough thrown into the Seine to make it combustible. In Paris, however, they have rather a vague notion of Nevada, as appears from the following conversation between two French gentlemen in a boulevard cafe, and reported (not by telegraph) specially for the Stock Report:
First Gentleman—"Oo is zis Mademoiselle Nevada who goes to make von exhibition of herself at ze grand exhibition?"
Second Gentleman—"Poof! Why she is known tout le monde. She is ze wife of ze great Monsieur Sharon, ze President of ze Sierra Mountains. He owns ze whole country of ze Pacific Ocean, and Madame Nevada, ze comes to Paris wis all her wealth to show how rich he is."—Stock Report.

Kindnesses do not always produce what we expect; from a hand which we hate they are regarded as offenses; the more we lavish upon one who may hate us, the more arms we give him who wishes to betray us.—Cornell.

And in accordance with law and an order of the Board of Trustees, made on the 11th day of October, 1877, no many shares of each party of such stock as may be necessary will be sold at the door of the Court House, Reno, Nevada, on Thursday, the 6th day of December, 1877, at 1 o'clock P. M. to pay said delinquent assessments, together with costs of advertising and expenses of sale.

JNO. S. BOWKER, Secretary.

Reno, Nov. 16, 1877.

SUMMONS.

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees held on Thursday, December 6th, 1877, the above sale was postponed until Tuesday, January 8th, 1878, at the same hour and on the same terms.

JNO. S. BOWKER, Secretary.

Reno, Dec. 7th, 1877.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE SECOND JUDICIAL DISTRICT OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, in and for the county of Washoe.

The State of Nevada sends to Ceresia Gerunio, Antonio Borario, and Loporci, co partners doing business under the firm name and style of Ceresia Gerunio & Co., greeting: You are hereby required to appear in an action commenced against you as defendants by James Mayberry as plaintiff in the District Court of the Second Judicial District, in and for the county of Washoe, State of Nevada, and answer the complaint therein within ten days after the service on you of this summons. (Exclusive of the day of service), if served in said county, or twenty days if served out of said county, but within said District, and in all other cases forty days; or judgment by default will be taken against you according to the prayer of said complaint. The said action is brought to recover a judgment against you, as defendants, for the sum of Three Thousand, Ninety-four and 35/100 Dollars ($3,094 35/100) gold coin of the United States, in favor of the plaintiff, said sum being a balance due the plaintiff on an account for goods, wares and merchandise sold and delivered by plaintiff to defendants at their special instance and request; also for board of men (employees of defendants) and horse feed obtained at the special instance and request of defendants from plaintiff; said account commencing on or about the 1st day of October, A. D. 1875, and ending on the 17th day of December, A. D. 1876, the whole said account amounting to the sum of $12,094 35/100, on which there was paid the sum of $9,000, leaving the sum of $3,094 35/100 balance due as aforesaid, all of which will be taken against you, as defendants, if you are not on file in the office of the Clerk of said Court at Reno, in said county, and you are further notified that if you fail to appear and answer said complaint, and judgment will be taken against you for the said amount, besides interest and costs of suit.

In testimony whereof, I, P. B. Comstock, Clerk of said Court, have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of said Court, this 31st day of August, A. D. 1877.

P. B. COMSTOCK, Clerk.

WATCHES!! JEWELRY!!

ROMAINE GOLD.

SO EXTENSIVELY WORKED IN PARIS, was first discovered in 1853 by the celebrated French chemist, M. D. De Dalage, who manufactured it into jewelry, and for years sold it to the leading jewelers of Paris for $200. In 1875, however, his secret became known, ten of the manufacturing jewelers established a stock company, with a capital of $10,000,000 for the purpose of manufacturing Romaine Gold Jewelry and Watches. With this immense capital and the aid of improved machinery, they are enabled to produce all the latest patterns of jewelry less than one-tenth the cost of solid gold, and of a quality and color which make it impossible even for experts to detect it from the genuine.

We have secured the exclusive agency of the United States and Canada for the sale of all goods manufactured from this metal, and in order to introduce them in the most speedy manner, have put up assorted lots as given below, which we will sell at one-tenth the retail value until January 1st, 1878. Read the list.
